Rural Community Assistance Corporation’s (RCAC) Community Facilities Loan Program helps create or improve essential community facilities to serve communities in the rural West. This RCAC loan program offers short-term loans to meet early acquisition and pre-development needs, interim construction costs and long-term permanent financing. Essential community facilities include a wide variety of projects, such as public buildings, nonprofit office buildings, treatment centers, emergency and transitional housing, assisted living, human services, public safety, child care, education and cultural facilities. These are only examples; many other types of projects are eligible.

General Program Requirements

- ELIGIBLE APPLICANT
  Nonprofit organizations, public agencies and tribal governments.

- ELIGIBLE AREA
  Projects must be located in rural areas with populations of 50,000 or less in Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii and other pacific islands, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington or Wyoming. In instances where the USDA Community Facility loan program is used as the take-out source for an RCAC short-term loan or as a guarantor for an RCAC long-term loan, the rural area population limit is 20,000.

- ELIGIBLE PROJECTS
  Eligible projects include community facility projects that primarily serve low-income populations or that serve the general population in a community where median household income does not exceed the state or the county median household income, whichever is greater.

• Interest rates and fees are determined periodically and are subject to change. Short-term rates are generally in the 5 percent range.
• The RCAC loan committee can make loan policy exceptions to tailor a loan to fit particular project needs.
• Amounts given as normally not to exceed are loan policy limits; higher amounts may be approved.

RCAC

Rural Community Assistance Corporation (RCAC) provides training, technical and financial resources and advocacy so rural communities can achieve their goals and visions

Founded more than 35 years ago, RCAC provides a wide range of community development services for rural and Native American communities, and community-based organizations in 13 western states and other Pacific islands. RCAC was certified as a Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) in 1996 and finances affordable housing, community facilities, utility infrastructure and small businesses in rural communities. As a certified CDFI, RCAC fills financing gaps and serves those traditionally neglected by conventional markets.

With nearly $130 million in lending capital, RCAC is a major resource for rural communities. Headquartered in West Sacramento, California, RCAC’s more than 100 employees serve rural communities from field offices located throughout our service region.
